This sleek, modern vessel was designed with large open deck areas, possible because of the scale of the yacht. The client requested space to display his extensive art collection, and so accommodation requirements are modest to maintain the demand for spacious cabins. The ABS classed design uses conventional fiberglass/foam core technology although the vessel could also be constructed of steel or aluminum should an owner so desire.

This is to be a moderate displacement vessel with an efficient hull form using our latest technology in appendages for fuel efficiency with excellent seakeeping. Twin diesels turning shafted propellers will provide a cruising speed of 24 knots with a long-range speed of 14 knots. The interior arrangement calls for a full width dinghy garage aft, off the large swim platform. Space is allotted for a variety of water toys including jet skis, windsurfers, and kayaks. Moving forward, next are the shop and maintenance facilities and mechanical crew quarters, followed directly forward by the engine room. Amidship are the guest accommodations with 4 spacious staterooms and a VIP stateroom each with separate head, shower, TV, and stereo. Forward with separate access by their own stairway are the crew cabins, which include galley, dining facilities, and entertainment and relaxation areas as well as separate sleeping rooms. On the main deck forward is the Owner's suite with his and hers head, walk-in closets and sitting room as well as office/den directly aft. Aft of this and offset to port is the galley with the Owner's hallway to starboard. Amidship in the surround is the art gallery with staircases to the upper and lower decks. This is also the main entrance for the vessel from both port and starboard decks. Aft is the formal dining room with the main salon directly behind. The main salon flows out onto the spacious aft deck through sliding glass doors where there is plenty of room for portable furniture. Curved stairways lead down to the large swim platform where there is room for lounging chairs overlooking those participating in water sports. The upper deck has a modern and well-equipped command bridge with port and starboard wing stations. Directly aft is the Captain's cabin/day room. Further aft is the library and lounge, which flows out onto the upper deck through glass doors. Again, there is a large area for portable furniture, including a table for dining al fresco, lounge chairs, and sun pads. The flybridge has a command station forward and small pool amidship under the sculptured arch. There is a bar and settee as well as additional sun pads aft. Plenty of lounging space is provided with complete privacy.

This sleek modern yacht combines comfort and style to provide the client with the yacht of his dreams.
